QUESTION: A legislator is invited to a campaign event. The legislator arranges transportation to the event in a corporation's airplane. How is the transportation reported ?

ANSWER: The transportation is reported as an in-kind contribution to the legislator. Previously, we have advised that when a candidate or committee who is holding an event arranges transportation for guests, the transportation is an in-kind contribution to the candidate or committee holding the event. This situation, however, is different because the transportation is not provided at the behest of the candidate or committee holding the event, but rather at the behest of the candidate attending the event.
